Further details

Rain will become persistent and heavy at times from the early hours of Tuesday, lasting through the day before dying out late in the evening. Accumulations of 15-30 mm are expected widely with 40-50 mm in a few places, mainly in the south, while the Mourne Mountains could see over 60 mm. With saturated ground this will be sufficient to bring some flooding in places.

The rain will be accompanied by strong winds especially overnight and into the morning which could bring additional impacts, for which a separate wind warning has been issued.

High likelihood of low impacts
